

Jared McKenna

Intern Architect

Archetype Architects
Portland, Maine

Jared has been with Archetype since 2004. He works directly with a project architect to provide timely accurate drawings for all stages of design. Jared's experience with many types of buildings from large commercial projects to small residential projects allows him to integrate into any project as needed. He enjoys documenting complex existing structures, making graphic presentations for schematic design, and detailing construction documents. On any given day he can be found doing all of these things and more.
